

Kevin Marsh
Chairman and Chief Executive Officer
SCANA Corporation

Kevin Marsh, 56, is a native of Atlanta, Georgia, and earned a B.B.A. degree in Accounting from the University of Georgia in Athens. He began his career with Deloitte & Touche Certified Public Accountants in Columbia, South Carolina, in 1977. Marsh joined South Carolina Electric & Gas Company (SCE&G), the principal subsidiary of SCANA Corporation, in 1984 as group manager of technical accounting and was named vice president and controller in 1989. Since then he has served in the capacity of vice president of corporate planning of SCE&G and vice president of finance, treasurer and controller of SCANA Corporation. In 1996 Marsh was named vice president and chief financial officer (CFO) of SCANA and became senior vice president in 1998. In addition to his duties as SCANA's CFO, from October 2001 to March 2003, he served as president and chief operating officer of PSNC Energy, the company's natural gas distribution company headquartered in Gastonia, North Carolina. He was president of SCE&G since 2006 and became president and chief operating officer (COO) of SCANA Corporation in January, 2011. On December 1, 2011 he became the chairman and CEO.

Marsh is a board member of First Citizens Bancorporation of South Carolina, Epworth Children's Home, Citizens for Sound Conservation, and a past board member of Palmetto Place Children's Emergency Shelter, Junior Achievement of South Carolina, and Sharing God's Love emergency support organization. Kevin and his wife are members of Grace United Methodist Church of Columbia, SC. He has two daughters and two grandchildren.