

W. Keller Kissam

*Senior Vice President, SCANA Corporation
Chief Operating Officer & President, Generation, Transmission and Distribution
South Carolina Electric & Gas Company*

Keller Kissam serves as Chief Operating Officer and President of Generation, Transmission and Distribution for SCE&G. He was born and raised in the farming community of Creston, South Carolina (population 33). In 1988, Kissam graduated summa cum laude with a Bachelor of Arts Degree from The Citadel, The Military College of South Carolina, where he served as the Regimental Commander of the South Carolina Corps of Cadets and received the Palmetto Medal, as well the General Wade Hampton saber. He is also a member of The Citadel's Business Hall of Fame and was recognized with an Honorary Doctorate of Business in 2015.

Kissam began his career with SCANA in 1988 as part of the New Utility Professional Program, in which he spent a year working in various departments of SCANA. After completing this program, he worked for South Carolina Pipeline Corporation supporting industrial customers served by the pipeline.

Kissam was promoted to manager of contract administration, and in 1993, became vice president of SCPC and was responsible for contract administration and gas supply.

In 1996, he moved over to work for SCE&G as vice president of gas operations and was responsible for the gas distribution operating company in South Carolina until 2003, when he became vice president of SCE&G electric operations.

Kissam actively serves the community. He is President of both the South Carolina Independent School Association and the Southeastern Electric Exchange. He serves on the board of Wilson Hall School. He also represents SCANA on the Midlands Business Leadership Group and the Central South Carolina Alliance. He has been teaching Sunday school at Shandon United Methodist Church for more than two decades.

Kissam formerly served on the boards of The Children's Hospital, Senior Resources, City Year,

Midlands Technical College Foundation, Hammond School, and The Citadel Brigadier Foundation. He is married and has two children.